

Animal Testing Policy

In order to prove safety and effectiveness for research and development of new drugs, animal testing within the minimum necessary range is essential.

We, Peptidream Group, respect the dignity of animal life and recognize the "3R Principle: Replacement (use of non-animal alternative methods), Reduction (reducing the number of animals involved), Refinement (avoiding the infliction of distress on animals) as our basic principle of animal testing.

Animal experiments are conducted only within the minimum necessary range.

Animal experiment committees have been established to ensure compliance with relevant laws, regulations, standards, etc., and maximum consideration is given to the 3Rs at each location where animal experiments are conducted.

When outsourcing animal testing, we outsource to contract research organizations (CROs) that we believe to be conducting activities in line with our policies.
